DID YOU KNOW?

Your old landscaping equipment probably lasted you for years. But, at some point, the question becomes, “What do I do with this old yard care equipment?” Here are a number of waste-free options for you to consider:

Sell your working equipment:

A garage or yard sale is a great place to not only get rid of those old tools, but even make a little money on them. Not up for a garage sale? Consider selling it online.

Donate to a charity:

Is your yard care equipment in good enough shape for someone else to use? If so, you can always take it to a donation center. In addition, you're helping out a good cause and providing someone else with an affordable option for their own yard care needs.

Sell as scrap metal or take it to a metal recycling facility:

Most yard care equipment is made from steel and aluminum, which can be sold to a scrap metal recycler or taken to a recycling facility for free. Simply drain the fluids (don't forget to dispose of the fluids correctly!) and find your nearest scrap metal recycler.

For more information on where and how to properly dispose of yard care equipment, you can contact us at 530-528-1103, you can visit us at <http://www.tehamacountylandfill.com>, or you can email us at tehamacountyrecycles@co.tehama.ca.us.
